CITY LIFTS ITS QUARANTINE ON FLOOD REFUGEES

Portsmouth Residents May Leave Housing Places During Fixed Hours

9 P. M. DEADLINE IS SET

Relief Officials Gather to Discuss Many Problems

The quarantine on Portsmouth flood refugees in Circleville was removed Wednesday.

Under new regulations, established at a meeting of relief workers Tuesday evening with Dr. E. L. Montgomery, refugee physician, the flood victims will be permitted to leave buildings after breakfast at 9 a. m., they must return for the 4 p. m. meal and be in headquarters before 9 p. m. Lights in all buildings will be turned out at 10 p. m. None will be permitted to leave the buildings before the morning meal.

Inoculation Continued

Dr. Montgomery informed relief workers all refugees have received one inoculation against typhoid. Two more will be given. He explained the inoculation period of typhoid ranges from five to 21 days but so far there are no cases of serious illness or signs of typhoid.

"These people will be a source of danger in theaters and other gatherings and should not mingle with Circleville persons," Dr. Montgomery said. "If they refuse to comply with regulations they should be sent to Columbus."

All of the local theaters are making arrangements to give special afternoon shows for the refugees.

Ed C. Ebert, chairman of the relief committee, called the meeting to "discuss problems," he told workers. One of the questions presented was whether or not children should be provided milk and food between meals.

Milk, Fruit Provided

Since only two meals are being given daily the children are to be provided milk at all times and fruit will be furnished for the adults.

Mr. Ebert asked workers to assist him in stopping erroneous rumors that have been circulated around the city about illness among the refugees and other matters. He explained all merchandise for refugees is being purchased locally and purchase orders must be used. Roy Norris, in charge of the food distribution, said the major purchases have been bread, butter, milk, tobacco, and some meat. ### Wives of Strikers Parade After Plant Fight

MRS. Geronda Johnson, wife of a "sit-down" striker in one of the Fisher Body Co. plants of General Motors in Flint, Mich., leads members of her emergency brigade in a parade outside the window-shattered Chevrolet plant No. 9 following an inside clash between union men and company police. A dozen persons were injured in the disorder, which was precipitated when company police attempted to break up a form of "inside picket line" composed of 30 union workers. The clashes spread to the outside, with men and women joining in the window-shattering. Michigan national guardsmen were rushed to the No. 9 plant and also to No. 6 plant, where there was a later battle.

CHURCH SUFFERS $25 DAMAGE AS FIRE BREAKS OUT IN CINCINNATI

An overheated furnace was blamed for a fire at the Presbyterian church Tuesday at 6 p. m. that caused about $25 damage.

The fire started in a chimney between the basement and first floor in a Sunday school room at the rear of the church. Firemen had to chop out a small section of the floor to extinguish the blaze.

The furnace from which the fire started is used to heat the basement where 51 Portsmouth flood refugees are being housed but none was endangered by the blaze.

While firemen were fighting the fire refugees were kept busy mopping water from the basement.

During the afternoon firemen were called to the Circleville Lumber Co. mill at Edison avenue and Pickaway street to extinguish a blaze caused by a defective flue.

Damage was estimated a $5 by Fire Chief Talmer Wise.

Smoke damage only resulted from a fire at 1:15 a. m. Wednesday at Gerhardt's grocery, E. Main street.

Cloths used for cleaning burned when a pail in which they were being boiled went dry.

THE FLOOD IN BRIEF

Circleville has eight flood refugees from Ironton.

Mrs. Emory Lawson and six children, Carl, 11, Emory, 8, Ruth, 7, Mary, 5, Sarah, 3, and Helen, six months, and her sister-in-law, Ella Lawson, 18, are staying at the home of William Andrews, 315 E. Corwin street. Mrs. Lawson is a cousin of Mr. Andrews. The family was sent first to Lancaster, then transferred here. They live at 320 Etna street in Ironton.

Eight trucks of the Circleville quartermaster company were taken to Greenfield Tuesday afternoon to transport national guardsmen to Ironton for flood relief duty.

Grover Williams, 24, a Portsmouth flood refugee who told police he was a jockey, was released Wednesday to go to Akron to the home of his mother.

Portsmouth refugees were to have liver and onions for their afternoon meal Wednesday.

The auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars donated 50 pounds of liver for the meal.

JUDGE PAUL GADOLA of the Genesee county (Flint, Mich.) circuit court, ruled on legality of "sit-down" strikers in two Fisher Body Co. plants of General Motors in Flint. Judge Gadola summoned Homer Martin and two other leaders of the United Automobile Workers to court to show cause why he should grant an injunction against the "sit-downers," who have held the plants since Dec. 30. Eviction was ordered.

CAIRO BATTLES CREST OF FLOOD

CAIRO, Ill., Feb. 3 — (UP) — The crest of the "super-flood" pushed a yellow, icy hand against the walls of Cairo today, threatening the lives of 6,000 weary men who were the actors in the first major test between a billion dollar levee system and two raging rivers.

The battle went on after a night of fear—a night of bursting "sand-boils" of spouting geysers in the streets of breaking gas mains, of sinking sidewalks and collapsing houses.

Up and up the river moved on the big gauge that marks the height of the flood here, at the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

All the way down the Mississippi from the Ohio and in its path were Hickman, Ky., and New Madrid, Mo., waiting breathlessly to see if Cairo could throw back the worst that the river brings. Their hour comes later and while they waited the fear of the unknown was in the minds of their people.

Behind the crest was Paducah, Ky., a "ghost city" where the river was 10 miles wide, and five feet deep in the streets. Thirty-four thousand persons have been driven out of Paducah, and fate, piling woe on top of sorrow, sent fire raging into the town.

Louisville, still farther back of the crest, had 230,000 homeless, 211 dead, and 25 of its 40 square miles under water.

Clarence D. Laylin, Preston Davis, and Boyd Doty, Columbus; and Dr. Frank L. Slutz, Dayton, were chosen vice presidents.

A business session of the pastors' group at which resolutions will be adopted was to be held today.

Delegates at the convention last night heard protests made against compulsory military training in colleges and universities and the liquor traffic.

PHYSICIAN'S BODY FOUND IN THICKET

Robert Kenyon, 20, Removed from Willow Springs to Prevent Lynching Attempts as Town Learns of Death After Abduction

G-MEN BELIEVE BOY WORKED ALONE

Call for Medical Assistance Leads to Death of Popular Ozark Mountain Resident

WILLOW SPRINGS, Mo., Feb. 3 — (UP) — Robert Kenyon, 20-year-old moronic police character, led federal agents and state troopers today to the body of Dr. J. C. B. Davis, whom he kidnaped and killed before attempting to collect $5,000 ransom.

The body of the 67-year-old physician was found in a thicket 200 yards from U. S. Highway 63, 14 miles south of Willow Springs. A check book was clutched in the left hand, indicating, officers said, that he had tried to the last to buy his life from the kidnaper.

Earl J. Connelly, federal bureau of investigation agent directly under J. Edgar Hoover, said Kenyon apparently worked alone.

"The position of the body indicated that there had been no struggle," he said.

Killed, Then Write Notes

Connelly believed that Kenyon killed Dr. Davis, then sent the ransom notes. The first note was received last Thursday morning, demanding that $5,000 be paid in four $1,000 bills, nine $100 bills and five $20 bills. The second was received yesterday after Kenyon was arrested.

Kenyon led federal agents and state troopers to the body after 18 hours of questioning in which he finally broke down and confessed kidnapping Dr. Davis a week ago yesterday as the physician walked from his office.

The kidnaper was rushed away to an unnamed jail for safekeeping immediately after the body was found to prevent mob violence. Feeling had become intense here as word of the confession spread among townsmen before dawn.

"They would lynch him in a minute if he stayed here," Supt. B. Marvin Casteel of the state highway patrol said.

Casteel and Connelly led the search for Dr. Davis and the kidnaper. Both were called into the case the day after the physician disappeared.

Dr. Davis had been shot five times, twice in the head and three times through the heart. The body was found lying face down.

Death Weapon Found

Kenyon was arrested yesterday by Sergeants Nathan Massie and Otto Viets of the state highway patrol. They said they received a tip but refused to reveal from where it came. Kenyon had an automatic pistol in his possession, the officers said. It was believed to have been the weapon with which Dr. Davis was killed.

The tip was believed to have come through a previous foray by Kenyon who last Nov. 24 held up an automobile sales agency at Rolla, Mo., and forced a salesman to take him to a point near Yukon. There, according to troopers, Kenyon took $2 from the salesman and escaped in the new Ford V-8 car in which they had ridden from Rolla.

The blue sedan was identified by four men here as the one in which Dr. Davis was last seen with the stranger, whom they later identified as Kenyon.

Kenyon admitted, according to Connelly, that he threw Dr. Davis' medical kit in the North Fork river 16 miles southeast of here (Continued on Page Eight)

FLOOD CONTROL CONFAB UNDER WAY

U. S. and State Officials Meet to Discuss Action Toward Big Project

TO HARNESS MISSISSIPPI

Secrest, West, Many Others Expected to Attend

COLUMBUS, Feb. 8.—(UP)—Plans to control the nation's greatest "storm sewer"—the mighty Mississippi river, and its tributaries were to be discussed today by high federal, state, and business officials.

The meeting, called by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, is one of three major flood-control conferences to be held here this week. The council of state governments will convene Friday and Saturday, and the Ohio Commercial Secretaries' Association will meet Saturday.

Spurred into action by the most disastrous flood in the nation's history, the conferees' principal task is to map out a campaign to obtain federal aid in construction of a network of reservoirs and other works throughout the Mississippi drainage basin.

Secrest, West There

Among those scheduled to attend the conference were Congressman Robert T. Secrest of Seneca, author of a bill introduced in the U. S. House of Representatives last week to create an Ohio Valley Authority; Charles West, under secretary of the department of the interior and "contact man" for President Roosevelt; and Col. J. D. Arthur of the U. S. Army engineers.

Also invited to attend was E. A. Sherman, advisors to the U. S. Forestry Service. George B. Chandler, secretary of the chamber of commerce, was to preside.

A spirit of cooperation between officials of cities and states in the flood area was evident as the conferees prepared to meet. The present flood has illustrated more clearly than ever that floods are not a local problem and can be dealt with effectively only through strict cooperation.

Samuel S. Wyer, consulting engineer and veteran flood control expert retained by the chamber of commerce to coordinate data on flood prevention, was to present a 35-page study condensed from 35,000 pages of information gathered by army and private engineers during years of intensive investigation of the problem.

4-H COMMUNITY SERVICE COVERS VARIOUS FIELDS

Four-H clubs are literally serving their communities in the proverbial 1,001 ways, a check of their last year's activities by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work shows.

Histories of 4-H clubs entered in the National Program on Social Progress last year revealed hundreds of activities which could be grouped under such heads as public presentations, educational promotion, social service, conservation and recreational improvement.

Under these heads 4-H groups cooperated with the Red Cross, Chambers of Commerce, Farm Bureau, Grange, Farmers Union, American Legion, Kiwanis, Rotary and Lion's Clubs, and churches, schools and other groups.

The activities of the youth groups were as varied as the material and spiritual needs of society. Four-H members were found to be cheering the sorrowful, serving the sick, ministering to the poor and improvident, assisting the unemployed, providing wholesome pastime occupations, and creating better community relationships.

The widespread dissemination of these facts now being carried on through the press, by radio and other avenues, is destined to great-

Boy Falls, Uninjured
"Bet you couldn't do it, could you?" That's what Master Charles Neff, 3, said about the plunge he made over on highway 23 the other day and lived to tell about it. Charles was out for an auto ride with dad, mom and sister Betty. Dad was at the wheel and spinning along at about thirty-five when Charles took a sudden notion that the car window wasn't just right, so he proceeded to fix it. He gave the latch to the window, as he thought, a turn. The door opened and Charles took a tumble, went out on his head. When a stop was made and his parents rushed back to pick up what they feared might be a dead child, Charles, before they reached him was crawling up. In the fall he received a good sized scalp cut on the right side of his head but other than that is as good as new and thinks his "fall" was just some more fun.

Location trips are looked forward to by many Hollywood actors, but to those who think such trips are fun, Claude Rains, featured with Cary Grant and Gertrude Michael in Paramount's "The Last Outpost," now at the Circle Theatre, advises a location jaunt to the desert.

In addition to fighting heat that sometimes reached a hundred and eighteen in the shade; scorpions, rattlesnakes and other desert denizens, he offers a typical schedule of a day's routine as they filmed this romantic story of Arabia's death-dealing deserts and jungles.

Personal Notes
Mrs. Clayton Weaver, her daughter and Lucy Montgomery are all sick at the Weaver home in Walnut township. Mr. Weaver, who has been in poor health for the last year is very much better.

C. A. Arthur and family are visiting the old home in Kentucky this week. Mr. Arthur is a section foreman on the C. and O. railroad.

Miss Gretchen Plum, a student at Ohio University, Athens, is visiting at the home of her parents, W. H. and Mrs. Plum.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Morrison are confined to their beds by sickness.

LEWIS, FIGHTING LABOR LEADER, TO VISIT FLINT

Fiery Organizer Seeking to Keep Two Fisher Body Factories Closed

ADDRESSES ARE PLANNED

Equity Right Demanded For Sit-Down Strikers

DETROIT, Feb. 8.—(UP)—John L. Lewis, disregarding the possibility of personal danger, rushed into this strike-torn district today to rally the spirit of workers in their battle with the powerful General Motors Corporation.

Determined to keep two Fisher body plants inoperative despite a court injunction ordering removal of sit-down strikers by 3 p. m., the militant labor leader planned an immediate conference with union officials and lieutenants of his Committee for Industrial Organization.

May Address Meeting
He expected to make a series of addresses before union mass meetings.

Lewis' strike tour has not yet been mapped definitely. However, he expected, early today, to visit Flint and possibly Lansing and Pontiac.

Lewis admitted in an interview aboard his train this morning that effectiveness of the strike depends entirely on continued shutdown of the two Fisher Body plants. He anxiously awaited disclosure of the course of action of Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan.

Lewis discussed the position of the strikers in his drawing room aboard his train.

He argued that the sit-down strikers have an equity right to maintain their occupancy because many were stockholders in General Motors.

MAYOR APPEALS FOR WPA'S AID TO FIX SEWERS

Mayor W. J. Graham, as president of Circleville's Board of Health, and Mrs. Melvin Trues, secretary, appealed to WPA Tuesday morning for assistance in repairing several sewers in the city now stopped up at the buildings being used for housing refugees.

The appeal was made in a letter addressed to Vattier Court-right, field engineer. It will be referred to the district office in Chillicothe.

The text of the letter follows: "We are appealing to you for help to assist in digging up some sewers because an unsanitary condition exists that is endangering lives of our citizens and refugees."

"The city and churches have no money to hire this work done. We will greatly appreciate your help in this matter."

Members of the board of health held a brief meeting Monday and decided to appeal to civic organizations to urge city council and the county commissioners to work out some plan for additional toilet facilities in Circleville.

Sewer trouble has developed at several of the buildings used by refugees. At one church it was necessary to install an outside toilet over a sewer connection in an alley.

Youthful Leader of Auto Strikers Surrendered Pulpit Few Years Ago In Order to Champion Working Man

Homer Martin, youthful president of the United Automobile Workers Union, who leads the current strikes in the auto industry, is a former minister.

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—A former minister—once known as the "leaping parson" before he gave up the pulpit to champion the working man today suddenly finds himself a national figure as leader of the current strikes in the automobile industry.

He is Homer S. Martin, youthful international president of the United Automobile Workers union which now is waging a titanic struggle with the Big General Motors corporation.

Martin is bespectacled, shy and scholarly-looking. Yet, he can use his fists and swear like the proverbial trooper when the occasion arises.

Cramped by Pulpit
He has lived in a Baptist parsonage; he also has known the inside of jail. He might have become a "Rev. Coughlin" in his own church; yet he gave up the ministry because he found he couldn't speak his mind from a pulpit in a small Missouri town.

Martin was born Aug. 16, 1902, near Marion, Ill., in a coal mining section. His father was a school teacher. Some of the earliest memories Martin recalls are of the strikes of coal miners in his home state.

Chronicles of his life have overlooked the importance of his boyhood on his later life. Close friends of Martin believe that the struggles of the miners left an indelible impression on a young mind. Martin says it is probably true but that his first real brush with conditions facing many workers came when he was working in the West Bottoms district of Kansas City years later.

Trade Champion
At 19 Homer S. Martin entered the Baptist ministry. Later he attended William Jewell college, at Liberty, Mo., where he became national A. A. U. champion in the hop, skip and jump in 1924. On his graduation in 1928 he devoted his full time to church work.

He was a sort of Vincent Van Gogh in a modern setting. For five years he did his best, he states, in trying to better conditions of factory workers living in the Kansas City bottoms. He later said that with his flock it was like beating his head against a wall.

Then, 1932 found him occupying the pulpit of the Baptist church at Leeds, Mo. Meantime, he tried to help organize clothing workers. He made laboring conditions topics of his Sunday sermons. He asserts the sermons probably shocked the more conservative deacons of his church.

Anyhow, Martin and the deacons split. Martin quit the church. Here any comparison with the famous old Dutch master ends. Whereas Van Gogh buried himself in painting, Martin was of a more practical turn of mind. He got a job on the assembly line of a Kansas City auto factory and worked to organize the men into a union there. Then he got fired. That was in 1934, after he had been elected president of the local union.

Frequent Arrests
He was later active in a strike there and was arrested several times on suspicion. At one time, it is reported, he also had to go on welfare because he couldn't get a job in an auto plant.

Appointed a delegate to the National Council of Federal Unions in the auto industry, Martin came to the attention of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. At that time the auto workers' organization was an A. F. of L. affiliate and later became the international union. Green appointed Martin a vice president and at the last convention of auto workers he was elected president. When the Committee on Industrial Organization split occurred in A. F. of L. ranks, Martin and the auto workers became a part of the CIO movement.

Today he is the youngest international union president. On the surface, at least, he also is the leader of the strikes which have halted most of General Motors' production.

Lewis Advises Him

Behind Martin, of course, is John L. Lewis, head of the Committee on Industrial Organization (CIO). In strike parleys Martin often takes time out to call Lewis by long distance phone, and report to him. And when negotiations with General Motors came to a complete standstill the other day, Martin flew from Detroit to Washington to confer with Lewis.

Martin follows all advice from Lewis closely. That is one of his happy faculties. He can listen to and take advice, not only from Lewis but from the most humble worker, according to his associates.

In appearance Martin is of average height, has light brown hair, gray-blue eyes and an almost studious expression. Union leaders say he is a fiery and dynamic speaker. Impartial observers say he has yet to reach the zenith as an A-1 orator, but admit he can hold and sway an audience.

He is married and is the father of a twelve-year-old girl and a six-year-old boy. The family lives in an upstairs flat in a frame house in a Detroit suburb. The home is modestly furnished. His salary as union leader is $3,000 a year.

His philosophy is wrapped up in these words: "More profits for the worker; less for industry."

BETTER HEALTH THE ANSWER

SICKNESS, not shiftlessness, is what mainly ails the Southern tenant farmer or share-cropper, according to reports of Government research workers.

It has been established, writes Lawrence Westbrook, that "a large proportion of these tenant farmers are afflicted with insidious, energy-sapping diseases."

Mr. Westbrook points out that the Government-run clinic at Dyess, Arkansas, was suffering from malaria, pellagra, diseased tonsils or bad teeth.

From the miraculous results obtained in the successful treatment of these settlement folk, as evidenced by their increased energy and desire for work, it has been proved that disease in many cases has been the cause of tenant farmer failures, aside from traditional lack of agrarian training.

Urging the utilization of the powerful resources of the Public Health Service, Mr. Westbrook quite reasonably puts first things first—in this case, prevention.

By clearing out the resources of malarial infection and by eliminating obvious physical disabilities, the lot of the tenant farmer in the South can be made brighter and the general health level of the country lifted appreciably.

Here, in all fairness, is where rehabilitation should start—with the human material, and general approbation will greet the Government that plans and puts into operation such a program.

TAIL END OF WINTER

EVERY day the sun climbs higher. The North wind sweeps over the land, but we are coming to the end of its reign. Longer days make our hours seem more cheerful. The life of vegetation has had its period of sleep, and on bright and sunny days you can almost hear the first stirrings of nature, anticipating the year of activity to come.

People do not write songs glorifying winter, but the good old summer time and the joys of spring stir the poets to action. But old winter has redeeming features.

It brings innumerable pleasant social occasions, and countless fireside gatherings where friends and neighbors exchange their ideas and engage in merry sport. The true philosopher says that whatever season he is passing through is always the best one.

Statistics show that Reno has twice as many marriages as divorces. Does this include the repeaters?

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

THERE ARE FOUR IMMEDIATE major problems which are causing deep concern in Washington.

The first is European peace. The second is industrial peace—involving collective bargaining, wage and hour maintenance. The third is relief. The fourth is inflation control.

Persons may rank these differently. But this seems to be the order in which the Roosevelt administration ranks them.

PEACE

No mere agreement will bring peace in Spain—or a surcease of the battle between Fascism and Communism. (Liberals deny it is a battle between Fascism and Communism. They say it is a battle between democracy—representing reaction—and democracy—representing liberalism. But the United States accepts the ground that it is a battle between two ideologies and that democracy lies in between. Democracies, however, remain anti-Fascist, for Fascism is strongly anti-democratic.)

Spain has become the field, or testing ground, upon which the nations of continental Europe seem determined to fight their war. The civil war in Spain is, in fact, a European war on a small, but horrible scale.

The present neutrality agreement, so energetically sponsored by France against heavy odds, probably never will be fulfilled. General Franco, leader of the Spanish insurgents, still will be able to count on aid from Germany and Italy.

And if they give "too much" aid, France suddenly may enter, with much more modern war parapheralia, on behalf of the Loyalists, or Socialists.

Then we should see a war for fair.

Italy's new Mediterranean accord with Great Britain cannot change the bitter anti-Communist determination of Mussolini. And the Nazis indicate their implacability for their seizure of Spanish Loyalist ships.

U. S. PART?

That is the background. Now, should the United States not remain isolated?

There is not the slightest question concerning that, in the United States.

Yet the flames of another world war probably would engulf America. Passions rise high. It has been difficult to keep them down concerning Spain. It has been difficult to prevent war supplies from going even to such a minor war as the one in Spain.

Thus, the United States may make a bold stroke for peace—calling on the nations of the world to come and sit around a table in America to try to settle their difficulties amicably.

Why doesn't Great Britain, the balance of power in Europe, take the lead? Why the United States, which is not a part of Europe?

Great Britain knows the answer. She has colonies and raw resources which such impoverished nations as Germany, Italy and Japan need. She cannot sit as an impartial arbitrator.

The United States was the only nation involved in the World War which neither took spoils nor had spoils taken from it—unless one terms the unpaid war loans as spoils taken by co-conquerors. In fact, Germany and Italy could feel a friendliness for the United States because it, too, was deprived of something.

SOMETHING MUST GIVE

Something will have to give in Europe.

It is all right to term Hitler and Mussolini as "mad men," endangering the peace of the world. But, remember, their nations have expanding populations—populations deprived of not only resource lands but credit with which to buy food as well.

If they are autarchial nations, if their governments are violent with war lust, if they threaten to overrun Europe, and if they strike at democracies, whose fault, in the final analysis, is it? Are there not other nations who can cure this madness—if it be not too late already—by sharing their accumulations with the needy?

Isolating a people merely makes them stronger in their will to exist and to rise above those who have forged their isolation. When Russia turned communistic, and virtually every nation blockaded Russia, trying to starve it into a change of government, then and there the Soviet regime became permanent and Sovietism became the religion of even the doubters in the land.

NO BARRIERS?

In the United States, a powerful new international figure has risen quietly. He is Secretary of State Cordell Hull. For half a century he has been a man with an international vision—peace through removal of trade and monetary barriers. Each nation to exchange with the others what it needs—a virtual communism of nations, if worked to its final conclusion.

RICHBURG SUPREME COURT LIST

WASHINGTON—Liberals and Senate liberals are agitated over an authoritative report that Donald R. Richberg, one-time NRA boss and "Assistant President", has the inside track for appointment to the first vacancy that occurs on the Supreme Court.

Intimations that Richberg's name heads the President's list of Supreme Court possibilities have been current for some time.

But because of his pronounced unpopularity with Senate liberals and labor, the reports at first were not taken seriously. With these two powerful groups aligned against him, it was considered unlikely that the President would risk a vitriolic Senate debate by naming him.

In the last week, however, confirmation of the report has come from an inner White House source whose reliability is beyond question.

Labor hostility toward Richberg goes back to his scuttling of Section 7A, the famous collective bargaining provision of the NRA. For this labor assailed him bitterly. On one occasion John L. Lewis, head of the militant Committee for Industrial Organization, refused to have his picture taken with Richberg.

It is entirely possible that discreet warning may be given Roosevelt that if he names Richberg to a vacancy on the Court, Senate confirmation will be fought tooth and nail.

BOOKKEEPING

Out of the $790,000,000 deficiency relief appropriation now before Congress, the Treasury will get $20,000,000 merely for keeping books on the expenditure.

LOST PICTURE

Of the nine members of the Supreme Court, Justice James Clark McReynolds is chiefly noted for his churlish disposition.

He refuses to lunch with his colleagues, and when Justice Cardozo was sworn into office, McReynolds ostentatiously read a newspaper. On another occasion, Justice Stone was so offended at a remark made by McReynolds that he left the room.

McReynolds also entertains no great love for Chief Justice Hughes, and while playing golf the other day, a companion remarked to McReynolds that it was odd there had been no new picture of the Supreme Court for several years. To this the Justice smiled and replied:

"Shortly after we moved into the new building, the Chief Justice thought we ought to have a group picture made of the entire Court seated in the new quarters. You know, he loves to see his picture in the paper.

"However, I didn't say anything, and he went ahead and made the arrangements for the photograph. But when the day came for the picture taking, I just didn't show up, so they couldn't take it!"

DIET AND HEALTH

Balance Is Necessary in Any Reducing Diet

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
A REDUCING diet is not a faddy diet, and should be so arranged as to maintain a balance and include all the necessary elements of food, just as any diet should. The only way in which it is different from an ordinary diet is in the total number of calories, and in this it does not really differ, because we are presupposing that it is arranged for people who do not exert themselves as much as they did when they were young.

Dr. Clendening

The elements of a balanced diet, aside from the total caloric value, are:

1. PROTEIN—An adult weighing 150 pounds needs about two ounces of protein a day. This is a basic requirement; most of us eat more. An average glass of milk contains about one-fourth of an ounce, and an egg contains about one-fourth of an ounce. An average serving of meat or fish contains about an ounce or an ounce and a half. Bread also contains protein, as do practically all vegetables. It is well, however, to make a place for such animal proteins as milk, eggs, meat or fish.

2. VITAMINS—There is probably too much talk about the vitamins for adults, although sometimes vitamin concentrates do a great deal of good. The only vitamin that the adult should be sure to add deliberately to his diet is Vitamin C, which he can get in any of the fruits, such as oranges, lemons, grapefruit, or such vegetables as tomatoes and potatoes. For the other vitamins, for instance, an egg contains all of them but "C"; so does milk; so do carrots; so does liver; so do oysters. It is pretty hard to miss out on the vitamins, and the adult requirement is small.

Calcium Principal Mineral

3. MINERALS—For the adult, much the same thing can be said about the minerals as about the vitamins. The only one that he should attempt deliberately to add to the diet is calcium, and plenty of this will be found in a glass of milk. Milk, eggs, spinach, liver, carrots, vegetables and fruits all contain the necessary minerals—calcium, phosphorus and iron.

But because a reducing diet is likely to be planned with reduction alone in mind, special attention must be paid to these three things—sufficient protein, sufficient vitamins and sufficient minerals. And these have been considered in the past passu diet.

BREAKFAST—Three prunes; oatmeal, ordinary helping with milk and sugar; coffee, half lump of sugar and eye dropper of cream.

LUNCH—Grapefruit juice; vegetable salad with lemon dressing; one-inch cube of cheese; one slice of bread with enough butter; glass of milk; black coffee or tea with lemon.

DINNER—One serving of steak with all the fat cut off; one small portion peas; half a small baked potato; one slice bread with enough butter; tapioca dessert; coffee or tea, half a lump of sugar and eye dropper of cream.

Total 1,400 calories.

The day that you remember, the day that I forget—Sunbursts
COPYRIGHT—RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

"It's the most beautiful thing I ever had."

(straight from Jackson Heights, Long Island), and working hours were not easy in her picture. Janet went off at six in the morning, driving out to the studio with another actor from the cast and returning late in the evenings.

Meanwhile the bills at the hotel were giving Janet heart attacks every time the discreet gray envelope was presented to her.

Finally she took matters in her own hands and began the rounds of the real estate offices. She soon learned, after being shown English houses, Italian villas and Austrian palaces for rent at the staggering figures you might imagine, to leave her mink coat at home when she went on her house hunting jaunts.

Finally she found the house. It wasn't a little white dream house—it was a small edition of the architect's idea of an English manor house. That is, it was built of brown stucco and had a great many darker brown exposed beams here and there over its facade.

But it did have a comfortable, spacious living room for a house so small, a small alcove for dining and a good-sized kitchen. Upstairs there was a large "master's" bedroom, a guest room and bath. And it was nicely furnished. The living room had simple, colonial, modern furniture and a grand piano and Janet saw at once that she could do a great many things with it.

Janet paid the first month's rent and made a call at a garage where she priced modest second-hand cars.

That night, sitting proudly at the wheel of the car that cost a hundred and twenty-five dollars and looked worth two hundred, she hailed Joel at the gates of the studio.

That astonished young man got in beside her and Janet drove him out to their new home. That night she learned her first lesson when Joel expressed delight. Thereafter she was to make all her moves without fear of what Joel would think of them.

"We've got to have a housewarming," she said to him a few days later without telling him the reason why.

"Whom shall we have?" he asked, willingly enough. "We don't know anyone."

"We're going to know everyone," she answered blandly. "So let's think about it."

"Suppose we ask Mary Pickford and Charlie Chaplin and . . ."

"Not to this one," she answered easily. "Now, let me see—"

She had a pencil and small pad in her hand. "We can't stay here and be buried. The Mr. and Mrs. Lockhart. They'll be excellent and I know they'd love to come." Janet had made the acquaintance of Mrs. Lockhart—the wife of a screen writer—at a beauty parlor and the two girls had often had tea together and whiled away lonely afternoons. "Then there's Harrison Teagle. He is sure to have a girl and he has been in Hollywood a long time." Teagle was the actor who had driven Joel to the studio before they came out to the little house to live.

"How about that Keller chap?" Joel asked.

"Keller? Oh, the man we played bridge with? No, he won't do. He's not in the picture business. But there is that couple—you know the ones I mean—we had lunch with them in the commissary the day I went to the studio with you."

"You mean Frank and Laura Crowell? I thought you didn't like her?"

"I didn't," she answered calmly. "But what has liking got to do with it? She's secretary to a big agent and he's in a producer's office. Also she told me she belonged to the Montblanc Tennis club. Yes, we must have the Crowells, by all means. Then there is that young man who met us at the train and that girl from Screen View Magazine who interviewed you on the set. Let me see, that brings the list up to ten. I wish we could get ten more."

Joel was reading a magazine. "Why not some of the kids on the set? Kathy Grace who plays opposite me and old Mrs. Stanford and his wife? They've been here in Hollywood for a long time."

"Wonderful! Do you think they'd come?"

"Why not?" he asked and went back to his reading.

"I can get a butler for the afternoon and evening. The caterer will supply the food and liquor and I think a boy to play the accordion or perhaps if we could get a player who could bring along a little studio piano. . . ."

Joel put down his magazine. "Mrs. Paynter, you're going at this in too business-like a way! What have you up your sleeve?"

"Your career, darling. We've been here two months, a third of our time, and it's time we mixed around and found out what's going on. It's time we made inroads."

Joel roared with laughter. "You little fiend," he said affectionately and forgot about the whole matter. Mrs. Paynter didn't; she didn't do things by half way measures. (To Be Continued)

BRADDOCK-LOUIS FIGHT IN JUNE TOSSED INTO LAPS OF GARDEN MOGULS

CHICAGO NAMED LOGICAL PLACE FOR TITLE BOUT

Morris, Executive of Two Locations, Says Tangle Can Be Worked Out

CHAMP READY TO BATTLE

Jacobs, New York Promoter, Interested in Match

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 — (UP) — James D. Norris, Sr., president of the Chicago Stadium and heavy stockholder in Madison Square Garden, today placed squarely in the garden's lap the settlement of tangled negotiations to match Joe Louis with Heavyweight Champion Jimmy Braddock.

He suggested if the garden could be persuaded to settle its existing contracts to the satisfaction of all concerned, "we should be in the best position to stage the million-dollar Louis-Braddock fight in Chicago."

Norris' definite connections with the agency controlling the contract for Braddock's scheduled title defense against Max Schmeling in New York next June 3 made him the most plausible plan of several proposed. He said, however:

"I'm not trying to steal a big fight from New York. If the garden wants to go ahead, it would be unfair to stop it."

Much Logic Seen

"But there is a great deal of logic in bringing a Louis-Braddock fight out here at this time. I think we can do it on a friendly basis."

The Stadium Corporation has sought for weeks to match Louis with the Schmeling-Braddock winner, but quickly jugged its hand when the champion agreed to fight for $500,000 or half the net receipts.

This offer was extended by the Sporting Club of Illinois through its millionaire president, Sheldon Clark. Before Norris could draw a deep breath, the Illinois Athletic Commission approved the bout and set the date for June 15.

The stadium appeared in complete accord with promoter James J. Johnston of the garden who said there was no loophole through which Braddock could wriggle out of his contract to box for the Sporting Club.

"There will be no contract-jumping as far as we're concerned," Norris said. "When we are assured there is no conflict over articles already signed we will go the limit to obtain this fight for Chicago."

"It's up to Madison Square Garden."

Norris presented his plan to Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, who has an exclusive ticket on Louis' services through 1940. Shrewd Mike was highly interested because of the retired grain broker's strength in garden affairs.

Mykrantz Drugs turned in one of the best 10-pin totals of the year this week to defeat the Circle City Dairy outfit three straight games in the City league. A total of 2,837 maps were knocked off the runways by the drug company keggers. The Dairy rolled 2,626, good enough to win most matches.

Every member of the Mykrantz team passed the 500-mark, while only one dairyman was under that figure. Thompson's 60 was high for the engagement.

TRACK ACE WINS FIGHTING CROWN AT OHIO STATE

COLUMBUS, Feb. 3 — (UP) — Dave Albright, Ohio State's husky Olympic track star who turned down a professional prize fighting career for a college education, today held his third consecutive campus heavyweight boxing championship.

Albright, a former Golden Gloves champion at Cleveland, made short work of his opponent, Frank Mastako of New Philadelphia, in the feature bout of last night's program.

A vicious two-fisted attack in the first round had Mastako groggy. The bout was halted and Albright awarded a technical knockout.

Jackson Girls Reduce Walnut Team Chances

The chance of the Walnut township girls to enter the county cage tournament in two weeks was reduced Tuesday evening when the Jackson township team, playing much-improved ball in recent weeks, won a thrilling 22-21 game.

Whether Walnut will get into the tournament depends on the outcome of the remaining two games on its schedule, Darby and Scioto being faced. Walnut must win both to get into the tournament.

Jackson boys, paced by Thompson, Keller and Wolfe, had too many guns for Walnut, so won a 25-17 fray. The games were played at Walnut township.

Ashville and New Holland put on a defensive ball game with the former team winning, 20-14, on the Harrison township court. Ashville had a 9-4 lead at the half.

The up-county villagers knocked off the girls' game, too, 20-15, but could not salvage the reserve contest which went to New Holland 13-11.

Walden and Gray did most of the varsity scoring, with Davis and Hosler high for the losers.

Williamsport, after its disastrous visit to Derby last week, came back strong to win 27-24 from Monroe's scrappy team, Tuesday.

Recob, Deercreek center, tallied six buckets and so did K. Walters for the losers.

Games Friday include Perry at New Holland, Scioto at Deercreek, Darby at Walnut, Jackson at Pickaway, Washington at Muhlenberg, and Ashville at Monroe. Saturday, Ashville goes to Millersport, Fairfield county.

OHIO WESLEYAN WINS 31-25 FROM MIAMI QUINTET

COLUMBUS, Feb. 3 — (UP) — Ohio Wesleyan's record for the current basketball season shows only three triumphs against nine defeats, and yet the Bishops today held down second place in the Buckeye conference race.

Two of the three triumphs Wesleyan has scored have been over its conference foe, Miami.

The second of the triumphs at the expense of Miami came last night at Delaware by a 31 to 25 count and boosted Wesleyan out of a three way tie for last place into a position behind Ohio University and Marshall.

A lightly regarded Capital University five completely blasted Ohio Northern's hopes for a share of the Ohio conference championship.

Victor in only one of seven previous league games, Capital handed the Polar Bears a 44 to 35 setback last night at Ada.

Kenny Heischman, Capital forward, went wild as he bagged 24 points to lead his teammates.

The defeat was the third of the season as against five league triumphs for Northern.

In other games, Mount Union downed John Carroll 30 to 14; Penn bested Ashland 47 to 35; Grove City (Pa.) edged Hiram 30 to 36; and Wilmington won from Cedarville 24 to 13.

Death Absolved Schaaf

I remember the night Ernie Schaaf died after a fight with Primo Camera. Schaaf went down after receiving a jab to the face that appeared to be a light blow. There was a flood of stories immediately, while Schaaf lay in a hospital, that it was a phoney, and that the hospital act was part of the show, to make it look good. Some New York sports writers with a reputation for being smart fell for the yarn. . . . and confided their suspicions to the dear public.

Then poor Schaaf died.

GOULD TO SEEK RETURN OF $5,000 FIGHT FORFEIT

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 — (UP) — Joe Gould, manager of Heavyweight Champion Jimmy Braddock, appears before the New York State Athletic commission today to ask for the return of a $5,000 forfeit which Braddock posted for a title defense against Max Schmeling June 3.

Gould said if he didn't get the forfeit money back, that Braddock would defend his title anyway against Joe Louis in Chicago this summer instead of Schmeling, with whom Braddock already is signed.

The meeting also will be attended by James J. Johnston, Madison Square Garden boxing director, and Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager.

About This And That In Many Sports

Usual Rumors

By BILL BRAUCHER

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—After every fight in which the unexpected happens there are stories to the effect it was "in the bag" . . . thus, the recent Louis-Pastor rumors . . . some big-time but unknown bettors, it seems, made a vague but colossal killing because Pastor stayed the full ten rounds . . . it was Pastor's idea to avoid a knockout at all costs, by running away from Louis, to protect "wise people" who were "in the know", and who cleaned up hundreds of thousands of dollars on the result of the bout.

You hear these stories, but no one seems to be able to name anybody who made a dime . . . just "wise guys" who were "on the inside." . . . So-and-so told so-and-so just how the fight was going to turn out, because he had friends who were in on the deal.

As a matter of fact, Pastor bet $1,000 on himself to beat, at 6 to 1, and wagered another $200 against $2,500 that he would knock the Bomber out . . . his instructions were to jump on his bike and go away from there whenever he felt himself in danger . . . all I can say is that Bob must have felt himself in danger almost constantly, because he set a new world record for pedaling.

Johnson-Willard

But as for Pastor laboring to stay the route so some guys could win bets—add that to Grimms' Fairy Tales, along with that story about how Jack Johnson laid down to Jess Willard in Havana.

I think the Willard-Johnson story is one of the most hilarious of the it-was-fixed yarns . . . as proof of the contention that Johnson took a dive, those who would have you believe it offer as proof the photograph of the knockout, with Johnson flat on his back, his gloves resting on his forehead as though to shield his eyes from the sun . . . the argument being that if he had sense enough to try to keep the sun out of his eyes he wasn't knocked out . . . so what!

Offered Rebuttal

This far-fetched fantasy is offered in rebuttal to the expert testimony of scores of newspapermen from the States who wrote the fight exactly as it happened . . . how a tired, dissipated champion was beaten to the ground by a stronger, younger man . . . how Willard clunk, punching the body, wearing down his opponent to the point where Johnson simply could go no further and succumbed.

Fights have been fixed, of course . . . so have horse races, wrestling matches, even a world series . . . but for every bout that is not on the up and up, there are many that are strictly honest, but which, because of some unexpected turn, become the subject of quaint tales.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK

CONTRACT BRIDGE

THE MASTER'S TOUCH
THE FOLLOWING deal appeared in a regular rubber game. South is declarer. The contract is 7-No Trumps, doubled by West, who feels certain of winning at least a spade trick. The opening lead is the 2 of hearts. See how many tricks South can win against the best defense.

that he held the guarded K of spades. Five club tricks were run. On the last two declarer let go both his low spades. On the first lead West played a club. He next let go a spade, then his lowest heart. West let go one more spade and another heart. After the eighth trick the five cards held by each player were as shown below.

♠ Q 8 3	♠ Q 8 3	♠ 9 6 4	♠ 9 6 4
♥ A 7 3	♥ A 7 3	♥ 9 8 5 3	♥ 9 8
♦ K Q J 8 2	♦ K J	♦ 9 8 5 3	♦ 9 8
♣ K J 7 2	♣ N. S.	♣ A 10 5	♣ A K 8 4
♣ J 10 6 2	♣ S.	♣ K Q 7	♣ A 10 4
♣ 10 9 5 2

Declarer's play needs the master's touch. It had that, as Mr. C. B. Lochridge was declarer. He needs no introduction. He played as given below.

Dummy's Ace of hearts won the opening lead. There were in sight just 11 tricks, or two short of contract requirements. To accomplish the feat of winning even a small slam the Q of diamonds must drop in two leads of that suit. The 3 of diamonds was led. The Ace and K picked up East's Q, leaving dummy's J worth a trick, but still only 12 tricks were to be seen. West had diamonds stopped while his double almost certainly meant Declarer regained his hand by leading dummy's last heart. Both East and West followed suit. Declarer led his last heart. While West pondered the best discard, dummy's lowest spade was discarded. East followed suit. West knew that declarer never would have bid so high without having the missing Ace of spades. If West let go a spade, the next three tricks must go to the Ace of spades, the J of diamonds and the Q of spades. If West let go a diamond and held his two spades, the next three tricks must go to the J of diamonds, the Ace of spades and then to declarer's last diamond. West was squeezed, and he knew it. One rarely sees 11 visible tricks turned into 13 actual tricks.

Unsolved Film Colony Murder Back in News

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3.—(UP)—The celebrated William Desmond Taylor murder mystery returned dramatically to the headlines today. Mary Miles Minter, once one of the loveliest stars of the silent screen, whose name was mentioned frequently in the investigation following Taylor's sensational death 15 years ago, demanded that authorities either clear her name of all suspicion or try her for murder.

YOUTH ADMITS DOCTOR'S DEATH

where it was found last Friday by Buster Brixey, a farm youth.

Discovery of the kit brought apprehension here that the physician, beloved throughout the Ozark hill country for his charity work, had been slain.

Two Notes Received

The first ransom note, believed to have been mailed at nearby West Plains immediately after Dr. Davis was slain, directed that the ransom be paid Saturday night at a rag-marked rendezvous at the intersection of State Highway No. 14 and U. S. Highway 60. A federal agent went to keep the appointment but the marker could not be located in the dense fog that settled over the Ozark hills.

The second note, crudely printed, was received yesterday a few hours after Kenyon's arrest.

Texts of the notes would not be revealed by Connelly or the state troopers because, they said, it might hinder prosecution of the first degree murder charges against the kidnaper.

Officers described Kenyon as small, weighing about 135 pounds and about five feet eight inches tall. He has dark hair and dark piercing eyes.

He pointed indifferently, Troopers said, to the body after he had led officers to it in thick before dawn.

Connelly came here directly from working on the kidnapping of 10-year-old Charles Mattson at Tacoma, Wash. With him were Dwight Brantley, special agent in charge of the Oklahoma City Bureau, E. E. Controy, agent at Atlanta, and 12 other G-men.

Patrol Thanked

Connelly attributed success in apprehension of the kidnaper to "results obtained solely through the cooperation of the Missouri state highway patrol."

He said Dr. Davis "undoubtedly was killed the day he was taken away." He attributed the kidnapping to Kenyon's general urge to spend money.

Mrs. Davis was prostrated when advised of her husband's death.

Davis' willingness to serve, even at 67, had led him into the able director's net. Casteel said that it was the physician's generosity to the unfortunate and the fact that he had brought half the community into the world that intensified lynching feeling.

Headed Association

The elderly physician was prominent throughout central southern Missouri for charity work and was a leader in his profession. He was president of the South Central Missouri Medical association when slain. He also was chairman of the Howell County Democratic Central Committee.

Two Oregon doctors have traced the common pain in the neck to sinuses. We still cling to our own theory, however, and it has nothing to do with sinuses.

gees was praised. All workers reported the refugees were pleased with the manner in which they were being housed and fed and they believed little difficulty would be experienced in lifting the quarantine. Some reported refugees had inquired about work here and the housing situation.

Mayor W. J. Graham said only two of the men had caused any disturbances. They imbibed too freely, but changed their tactics after spending a night on wooden benches, he said.

Mayor Graham thanked Circleville residents and all organizations for the splendid cooperation they have given in taking care of the flood victims. "Mayors of other cities have complimented us on the manner in which we have taken care of these people," the mayor said.

MARTHA BAILEY DIES OF STROKE AT DAUGHTER'S

Mrs. Martha Bailey, 64, former resident of E. High street, Circleville, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. David Stewart, in Findlay Tuesday at 3:35 a. m. Several strokes of paralysis proved fatal.

Mrs. Bailey removed from Circleville about 20 years ago. She was born in St. Paul, O., Nov. 10, 1872 a daughter of James A. and Anna Neihelmer Griffey. She married William Bailey in February, 1891. Her husband, three brothers and four sisters preceded her in death.

Surviving are her daughter and a sister, Mrs. Lottie Semones of Parma, O.

The funeral will be held in Findlay Friday with brief services at the chapel with burial in Forest cemetery. Time of the arrival at Forest cemetery will be announced later.

LETTER OF THANKS

"We wish to express our appreciation to the people in Circleville, because when we arrived here we were given a clean bed and plenty of clean clothing and hot food. We all have radios and toys for the children and the Boy Scouts are doing their part by giving the children pencils, and paper and plenty of oranges and apples. Each morning Rev. Toensmeier comes here at the Presbyterian church and has family worship, while the ladies prepare breakfast. Everyone is doing his best to make us comfortable and forget our troubles and sorrows for the time being. It sure makes us feel good to know so many nice people and hope that some time we will be able to do something in return.

From the Portsmouth Flood Refugees

We wish to thank all the citizens and workers here in Circleville personally, for every thing they have done for us and for their kindness to us.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fannin
